

Not all newspapers emphasize a locally-written editorial; some, in fact, make it a point not to express opinions of their own, but depend entirely on syndicated columns and "canned" editorials bought from the syndicates.

It has always seemed to me that while a newspaper's first duty is to lay all the facts impartially before the reader in its news columns certainly its second duty is to follow up the facts with an opinion. Whether the opinion is right or wrong is beside the point. Our American government, the very liberties of the people and the freedom of speech and press, all depend on public debate and the formulation of a collective opinion.

There are thousands of newspapers in America, and about as many opinions as there are editorial-writers. But when you sift all this, and weight it down with what millions of readers think about the debate, you come out with a collective opinion. That's what makes democracy work.

Newspapers with no opinion, and citizens who let other folks speak for them, are poor stuff in a self-governing nation.

One of the finest papers in America is the Milwaukee Journal, which not only stands among the first 10 in advertising value but also boasts that all its editorials are locally-written. When the American Society of Newspaper Editors met last month in Washington J. D. Ferguson had this to say in behalf of his Milwaukee paper and its policy:

"We want our subscribers to say 'The Milwaukee Journal says thus and so,' not that 'Pearson says' or 'Lindley says' or 'Lippmann says.' We want the Journal to have a distinct character of its own just as any other daily visitor in the homes of our community has a character."

"Instead of blaming 'this era of crisis' I would call it this 'era of hysteria' contributed to in no small measure by the canned editorial which flourishes because quite a number of editors have surrendered their responsibility."

And to the Milwaukee message I might add this postscript: The newspaper that doesn't speak out regularly with a voice of its own is scarcely going to make itself understood — or believed — when some issue does finally succeed in drawing it out.

Parade Marks Start of Stock Show Rodeo

Governor Sid McMath will lead the parade this afternoon at 4:30 for the official opening of the Third District Livestock Show's rodeo which plays at the Coliseum Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights starting at 8 o'clock.

The parade will form on South Walnut street and wind its way through downtown Hope. The principal feature will be horsemen with a few novelties and clowns mingled throughout.

Roundup Clubs from Louisiana, Magnolia, Texarkana, Hope and several other points in south Arkansas will join in assuring plenty of riders for the occasion.

Livestock Show Manager Bob Shivers already has indicated this year's show will be the best ever held here. This is due to the fact that the rodeo circuit is just opening up and many of the nation's top riders will be on hand.

Local Radio Station KXAR will broadcast a portion of the rodeo each night starting at 8:30. A broadcast describing the parade this afternoon will be rebroadcast at 7 p. m. tonight.

Pictured above is Bill Linderman, Red Lodge, Mont., champion cowboy of 1950, who will be one of the many top cowboys of the country to ride in the Third District Livestock Show rodeo which opens here tonight at 8 o'clock and continues through Saturday night.

D. C. SALLE MEETS CATTLEMEN — As the Governor ordered a rollback of wholesale beef prices today, Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle, second from left at table, addressed an informal meeting of cattlemen here. In Washington, Chairman Harold D. Cooley of House Agriculture Committee said cattlemen have "woefully failed to justify" their angry opposition to orders which DiSalle claims will slash beef prices by 9 to 10 cents a pound by October 1. ## There Comes a Time in War When the Soldiers Find a Spot That Looks Like Home

By STAN CARTER
(For Hal Boylston)

At The Han River, Korea — (P)—It was the Han river in Korea but it reminded the GIs of home. The front was close. It was quiet and forgotten for the moment. The day was warm, spring-like.

American troops, who a few days ago had fought out of a Chinese Communist ambush, swam and played in the water.

Sgt. James Kishbaugh of Nespechka, Pa., said the Han to him looked like the Susquehanna, which meanders through Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland.

Kishbaugh, member of a Fifth regimental combat team tank company, was helping wash a Sherman tank in the river tankers, in their shorts, splashed water on themselves and their tanks.

"We've got boating, swimming and everything. And the water's as cold as the Susquehanna, too," Kishbaugh said.

"It reminds me of Myrtle Beach in South Carolina, except there are no women," said another tanker, Cpl. John T. Clard of Union, South Carolina.

"It's almost like Whitehouse swimming pool," said Cpl. Stanley Komisarski, East Brook. (Field Copy) Pa.

"It's not as cold as Stinson Beach," said Pvt. Jerome Sylvia, San Francisco. Tex Naquin of New Orleans and Cpl. William A. Floyd of London, Ky., swimming in the nude and splashing water on each other, agreed the Han was not as good as the beaches at home but said it was like a holiday after the heavy fighting during the Communist offensive.

"It feels good to be in some water again. It's been two weeks since I had a shower," said Pvt. Floyd Robar of Shreveport, La. (Pvt. James B. Reiley, Chicago)

The Han was cold as Lake Michigan.

"I know. I only live a mile and a half from the lake."

"This is good for the men. It gives them a chance to relax," said Sgt. William G. Egleton of Erie, Pa.

Colo., and Cpl. Thomas W. Hardy of Augusta, Ga., paddled on inflated rubber air mattresses.

Two infantrymen, Cpl. Albert Obab, Medford, Mass., and Pfc. Robert Brandon of Benton, Ky., basked nude in the sun on the sandy bank of the Han.

"It's cold when you come out of the water," Obab said.

"The sun feels good," said Brandon.

Pfc. Raymond Akiona, Honolulu and Sgt. Isami Sumida, Honolulu, sat on the beach.

"It's too cold for Hawaii boys to swim," said Akiona.

"The water looks pretty good. There are no waves though," said Sumida.

Hot Springs, May 10—(AP)—An explosion in an empty water tank at nearby Belvedere Country club yesterday claimed two victims. A third workman is in critical condition, suffering from severe burns. Injured fatally were W. W. Britt, 21, West, Miss., the first worker out of the tank after the explosion, and Sam Crump, 24, Millington, Tenn.

Britt died at Army and Navy hospital here last night. Crump died at St. Joseph's Infirmary early today. He suffered second and third degree burns about his body.

Leroy Price, 24, of Mobile, Ala., was reported in a critical condition. The workmen were painting the interior of the 75,000-gallon tank with an asphalt paint.

Cause of the explosion wasn't definitely determined. However, firemen surmised that gases from the materials being used may have been involved.

Dr. Leonard Brand, a Hot Springs physician, descended to the bottom of the 100-foot-high tank to administer morphine to Price before he was moved.

Rescue operations took nearly two hours.

Price was lowered to the ground by a rope. Britt and Crump managed to climb down a ladder. The explosion tore part of the top from the tank.

Probers Halt Investigation

Little Rock, May 10—(AP)—A grand jury investigation of alteration of a legislative record has ended—without indictments but with some scathing criticism by the jury.

The investigation grew out of a charge in the Arkansas House Journal record which made it appear that the emergency clause of the new liberalized state purchasing law had been adopted rather than rejected as it had.

The Pulaski county grand jury reported yesterday that "it is proven beyond a doubt that the journal vote was changed and a felony committed."

The jury was unable to determine who might have changed the record, but it said:

"We vehemently condemn the gross negligence and utter lack of responsibility of those duly appointed and constituted officials responsible for the security of the (house) opened within three years if additional evidence should turn up and records x x."

The jury investigation started shortly after adjournment of the regular session of the legislature in March. After during the April special session the house journal committee held public hearings but returned the matter to the grand jury.

Gazette Says Morley to Resign

Little Rock, May 10—(AP)—The Arkansas Gazette said today that resignation of State Revenue Commissioner Dean R. Morley is "imminent" and that State Purchasing Agent Carl Parker might succeed him in the $7,000 a year job.

Morley declined comment. Gov. McMath was out of the city.

Morley was an FBI agent in charge of the Little Rock office when he was appointed to the job. Parker was assistant revenue commissioner until his appointment as state purchasing agent.

Distribution Up to Board

Little Rock, May 10—(AP)—The Arkansas board of education—not the attorney general—will have to decide just how to fit reduced revenue available to a new formula for aid to local school districts.

The formula, a complicated arrangement compiled by Re. L. H. Autry of Mississippi county, was adopted by the 1951 legislature.

The board asked Murry how it should be applied in view of reduced revenue.

Murry replied yesterday that the problem was "administrative" rather than "legal" and the board would have to use its judgment.

Discrimination Suit Comes Up

Little Rock, May 10—(AP)—Racial discrimination in employment of carpenters on a construction job at the Pine Bluff arsenal has been charged in a suit in federal court here.

The suit was filed by members of a carpenters union local composed of Negroes. The contractor, Blaw Knox construction company, and the white carpenters local were named defendants.

The Negro carpenters said they'd been denied employment on the job.

Dewey to Discuss Mac's Dismissal

New York, May 10—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will deliver a broadcast speech tonight outlining his program for fighting "world wide Communist aggression" and attacking Sen. Douglas MacArthur.

He will speak to the New York State delegation committee at its annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The Columbia Broadcasting system will broadcast the address nationally from 8:30 to 10 p. m.

Retail butter and egg prices advanced slightly in many stores this week. Several fresh vegetables cost as supplies increased seasonally.

And meat held steady as live-stock producers and packers delayed congress with protests against beef price controls.

Representatives of a score of large meat industry associations descended on Washington to lay before lawmakers their views that price controls will only create inflationary black markets, meat shortages and consumer rationing.

But Price Stabilization Director Michael V. DiSalle said: "The people who are causing all this disturbance over the order will have to demonstrate clearly to me that this order isn't fair, isn't equitable or essential to the stabilization program."

Meantime, the first phase of the complicated beef price order went into effect yesterday when dollars-and-cents ceilings were put on beef at the wholesale level.

Next Monday, dollars and cents ceilings go into effect on beef in retail stores, based on standard grades and cuts and varying according to the type of store and its regional location.

On Aug. 1 and again on Oct. 1 retail prices will be rolled back four to five cents a pound, for a total cut of around a dime a pound by October.

Other pricing regulations on meat are in the works, with one affecting pork expected to be announced shortly.

The agriculture department, in a report on the national food situation, said food prices are expected to hold at present levels until early summer, then tend to go higher in the latter part of the year. Supplies of most foods were reported adequate to maintain civilian consumption at least as large as last year.

New York, May 10—(AP)—The famous broad hat and uniform worn by Gen. Douglas MacArthur may soon give way to mufti.

The General's aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said yesterday that MacArthur has been fitted for civilian clothes for the first time in 11 years.

A nursery will be provided for all services. It is located in the Educational Building.

The long table with 40 piece settings was attractively decorated with a profusion of the dark red Veterans' poppies spaced with the green waxy foliage of English Boxwood. A single poppy lay at each place across a picture post card of Hope's big watermelon and a memo pad the compliments of Hope Chamber of Commerce.

The group was entertained with two pantomime numbers by Miss Anita Copeland.

It Takes Determination

So you see, there is a cure for jealousy if the afflicted one knows that the trouble lies within herself (or himself) and has determination enough to keep on with the treatment until she knows herself to be cured. My husband and I have now been married for seventeen years and are very close and devoted to each other.

DOROTHY DIX

Green-Eyed Monster

Dear Miss Dix: Many of the letters which you answer in your column contain the problem of the jealous wife or husband, and you say, "Jealousy is incurable or hopeless." I have often been tempted to write you of my own experience, and at last, I'm going to do it.

When I married I shortly became one of those insanely jealous wives. My husband could not speak pleasantly to a woman acquaintance he met on the street without my going into a green-eyed tantrum. At parties his naturally friendly attitude toward the woman sent me into a hateful mood. This continued for the first three or four years of our marriage, during which time my husband gradually became more and more resentful and was being slowly alienated from me. I knew I was wrong, but when an attack of jealousy struck, I was helpless before the emotional storm that broke over me.

A woman who wants to cure herself of jealousy must begin by facing the problem squarely, then building up her faith in husband or sweetheart. The methodical reading adopted by L. B. B. can easily be put in practice by anyone. Libraries are available to all and expert guidance in book selection will gladly be given by the librarians—a doctor or spiritual adviser could also be of great help in this matter.

If jealousy is your problem, start now to great your husband with a smile when he comes home, instead of nagging and cross examinations. Keep your faith in him high, and undertake a reading program that will help you to better to understand your trouble and point the way to a solution.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 29 year old and my hair has been rapidly turning gray, and has now reached the hideous stage where it is no color at all. Twice I have had it dyed. It was very nice and my husband liked it, but I am by nature open and frank, detect deceit and don't like to go under false appearances. I am superstitious in regard to my hair and don't know what to do. What shall I do?

MRS. F. Z.

Answer: Dying your hair is no moral issue. It is a matter of taste. Nor does it deceive anyone. If you look better with your hair dyed, for Heaven's sake go on and do it. It is a matter of virtue for every woman to be as attractive as she can.

If your conscience balks at dye, get over the intermediate stage of turning gray by having your hair bleached. Gray hair with a young face is often startlingly beautiful.

FIREBALL POWERED

Who said You can't afford a fine car?

WHEN you look at all a ROADMASTER has to offer, it's only natural to conclude that it's priced with the rest of the fine-car field.

Sweeping proudly past you, it has a distinction that few cars can equal.

Stepping nimbly away from a stop light, it has the willing surge of power that the very exclusive combination of a 152-horsepower Fireball engine and Dynaflow Drive* delivers.

It rides the road with majestic smoothness, and comes to a smooth and gentle halt, in response to the finest brakes Buick ever developed.

Inside, it has spacious room, from side to side and front to back and seat to roof—plus a softness of cushions and a richness of fabrics which bespeak the custom standards to which it is painstakingly built.

*Years at no extra cost on ROADMASTER.

All you could want in a fine car is here in abundance.

But don't let that fool you into deciding it's too rich for me."

If you've looked into 1951 car prices generally, you'll discover this:

You can own a ROADMASTER for just a few more than an ordinary car will cost—plus several hundred dollars less than the price of a car usually found in "the fine-car field."

Why not look into this today?

Equipment, accessories, trim and modern conveniences are included in the price.

O'Dwyer is Expected to Be Recalled

By LYLE C. WILSON

Washington, May 9.—(UP)—Recall of Ambassador William O'Dwyer from Mexico city is expected shortly.

O'Dwyer used to be mayor of New York. His fitness for the No. 1 American diplomatic post in this hemisphere has been questioned since he starred before the Kefauver crime committee's television cameras last month.

The ex-mayor's reputation was sullied by exposure of the New York city political tie-up with the underworld. Yesterday the fire came closer to O'Dwyer's feet.

A federal court jury in New York found James J. Moran guilty of perjury. Moran was O'Dwyer's henchman, almost his top favorite. The jury found Moran lied when he denied to Kefauver frequent contacts as O'Dwyer's first deputy fire commissioner with Louis Weber, Brooklyn boss of the police racket.

Moran was no longer a deputy commissioner when he appeared before the crime investigators. O'Dwyer gave Moran a lifetime $15,000-a-year job as water commissioner last year just before re-passador to Mexico.

Iran, May 9.—(UPI)—Iran denied today—and denied—a report that recent nationalization of British-controlled Iranian resources was a Communist plot.

A denial was made in a diplomatic note to British Foreign Secretary Ernest Marples, in which Iranian Premier F. Following the senate gave Mosaddegh's vote of confidence, with 130 members present, leaving the new national front government three abstained. The spite British protest.

Sees Atomic
Artillery
Tests Soon

Washington, May 9.—(UPI)—U. S. weapons experts may know by now whether they have a practical atomic artillery shell. Congressional sources speculated today that a series of atomic atomic actions followed an overwhelming confidence vote by the House (lower chamber) on Saturday.

He made clear that Iran had no intention of retreating from the go-ahead with oil nationalization, despite British protest.

tests being concluded this week at Eniwetok included the firing of weapons designed for use against enemy missiles and fortifications.

In the absence of official announcements, these sources believed that the first series of spring and summer tests scheduled at the Pacific proving ground have been completed or shortly will be. There are indications that at least three different weapons were tested: "stockpile" A-bombs of the "new and improved" kind believed to have about twice the destructive range of the Nagasaki type; a smaller bomb fashioned for delivery by attack-bombers; and an atomic warhead.

Although official information is lacking, military sources have speculated that the warhead is a sort of king-size mortar shell.

Supporting that theory is the fact that during World War II this country developed giant mortar, of 36-inch caliber, capable of hurling a 3,000-pound missile nearly two miles with great accuracy. It would not be an impossible feat of ordnance engineering to design an atomic shell for such a weapon, experts say.

The mortar, long ordnance high explosive shells, was intended for use against Germany's Siegfried Line. It was not needed, however, and never went into production, although it was thoroughly field-tested and even got a name—“Little David.”

Little David appears to fit the specifications military men have set for a weapon to deliver atomic explosives accurately on battlefield targets.

Presumably the atomic shell would be fused to explode only a few hundred feet in the air to prevent damage to the side firing. At Hiroshima and Nagasaki A-bombs exploding nearly 2,000 feet in the air caused nearly total destruction in a circular area a mile across.

Little Rock, May 9—(AP)—A petition to prevent official publication of the livestock law amendment adopted by the 1951 legislature in effect has been denied by special Pulaski Chancellor E. R. Parham.

However, a no formal decree has been filed.

Parham said yesterday that although he felt that the amendment was unconstitutional, he could not properly forbid Secretary of State C. G. Hall from publishing the amendment in the official digest of 1951 legislative acts.

Nine Garland county property owners had petitioned the court to restrain publication of the amend-

Won War Alone Russia Asserts

London, May 9—(AP)—Pravda pinned a few editorial laurels on the Russian people today for what it described as the single-handedfeat of winning World War II.

"It is six years since the day of the victorious conclusion of the great patriotic war of the Soviet people against the Hitler invaders," Russia's Communist party newspaper said in an editorial broadcast by the Moscow radio.

"As a result of the heroic struggle of the Soviet people, German imperialism was turned to dust. Soon after the winning of this victory, the Soviet army and navy crushed Japanese militarism."

"The two sources of world aggression," Pravda concluded nonchalantly, "in the West and in the East, were liquidated."

ment on the grounds of unconstitutionality.

U. A. Gentry, Little Rock attorney for the petitioners, said today he was seeking court cases on the subject to present to Parham in an effort to persuade him (Parham) to change his indicated course. If he is unsuccessful, Gentry said he would appeal the decision or file a new suit.

The original livestock range law was an initiated act adopted by popular vote in the 1950 general election. It prohibited livestock being permitted to run at large on any public road in the state. The legislature amended the law to apply only to hard-surfaced highways and within municipal corporate limits. Parham said he thought the amendment was unreasonable.

Elevator Operators on Strike

New York, May 9—(AP)—Elevator operators and other service workers pushed "mop-up" strikes today against some 200 New York city commercial buildings and skyscrapers still refusing to make new wage agreements.

Local 32-B of the Building Service Employees International Union (AFL) says it will call strikes in at least 50 of the hold-out buildings today. The union did not identify the structures.

The union seeks to bring all commercial buildings under contract by Friday to clear the way for strike operations against apartment houses, starting Monday.

Walkouts yesterday by 500 employees in 100 buildings brought quick settlements, a union official said. By nightfall, only five of the struck buildings were still affected he added. Many settlements were made before tenants could become foot-sore.

The spot strike action and threat of more strikes, the union reported, also brought another 200 holdout operators "into headquarters with contracts like crazy."

Before yesterday's action, the union said a total of 500 building operators had refused to sign a wage-welfare pattern set last January with the Realty Advisory Board on Labor Relations a fund-raising group.

This pattern gave union members $4 a week more in wages and $1 in welfare benefits. Previously weekly pay was $50 to $58.83.

Progress in the commercial building dispute was not matched yesterday in the dispute with apartment house operations.

The union seeks a $60 weekly minimum wage and 40-hour week for workers in apartment buildings. Current pay scales, the union said, range from $48.45 and $64.01 for a 40-hour week.

An estimated 12,000 workers threaten to walk out Monday in the apartment dispute. City officials have arranged with union and management representatives for emergency health service when and if the apartment strike occurs.

Marilyn S. Pitzele, chairman of the state mediation board, was continuing efforts to secure a settlement between the union and the realty board.

Cotton Show in Swing at Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., May 9—(AP)—The 70th Memphis cotton carnival, this big river town's annual fun and frolic fest, opens officially tonight in a tempered mood set by the world situation.

Signalling the formal start of the festivities will be the arrival of the royal barge, bearing the king and queen of cotton and their court and other dignitaries.

In keeping with the 1951 theme—"King Cotton Fights for Freedom"—the brilliantly lighted barge will fly a massive American flag, plus the banners of the 60 member-nations of the United Nations.

Fair skies were forecast for the event, which attracts several hundred thousand persons from all over the mid-South each year.

Besides the docking of the barge after a 17-block cruise up the Mississippi river, today's program includes an air show, a fire-works display, and a giant parade led by King Edward Cook and Queen Elinor Turner.

Shortened because of the international situation, the carnival, which usually lasts a week, will end Saturday.

Those taking part in the festivities will include the 1951 Maid of Cotton, Miss Jeannine Holland of Houston, Texas.

Mayors of 75 cities and towns in Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Missouri were invited to their carnival luncheon sponsored by the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Apportionment Board Meet Delayed

Little Rock, May 9—(AP)—A meeting of the Arkansas board of apportionment, scheduled for Friday, has been postponed until May 16.

A spokesman said the change in date was caused by the Arkansas Bar association convention in Hot Springs this weekend.

The board, which includes Governor McMath, Atty. Gen. Ike Murry and Secretary of State C. G. Hall, is charged with redistricting membership of the Arkansas house and senate according to 1950 federal census figures.

Tribute Paid to Late Justice

Conway, May 9—(KAP)—Tribute was paid yesterday to the late Associate Judge R. W. Robins of the Arkansas Supreme court. Chief Justice Griffin Smith and Associate Justices Monroe Millican, J. S. Holt, George Rose Smith, Sam Robinson, Ed F. McFaddin and Paul Ward attended the program.

A portrait of Justice Robins was presented by Leoza A. Hause. The portrait will hang in the judiciary court room house here.

White, Negro Soldiers Battle

Karlsruhe, Germany, May 9.—(AP)—Nearly 100 white and Negro U. S. soldiers fought a wild battle in a German cafe here last night. Forty of them were taken to hospital, German police reported. The police refused to give details, other than to say no German patrons in the nearly-ruined cafe were injured.

A crowd of some 400 Germans returning from a nearby movie crowded the sidewalks in front of the cafe to watch the fight.

U. S. army authorities declined to make any statement on the fracas until their investigation is completed.

The Australian wool industry began in 1804 with introduction of Merino sheep from the flock of King George III of England.

Each was presented with a citation from the chamber of commerce for their help in making Hollywood the film capital of the world." They were handed out by Jack Benny, who still admitted to being only 39.

The premiere was for a new film ("Hollywood Story") which closely resembles the story of William Desmond Taylor: The silent film director was the victim of an unsolved murder and a resulting scandal rocked Hollywood in the twenties.

The old timers, wearing their best finery, arrived at the Academy Award theater in studio limousines and were profusely photographed and interviewed. They all seemed to enjoy their big night. At one of them, Heine Conklin, said:

"If only we could get a reception like this from the casting office."

SONYA SARAKA was the first to be brought in. A matron had given her dry, ill-fitting clothes, but on Sonya they looked good. Then Smiley Wetkauf and Clara Mayhew came in. Clara looked as blonely straight as ever but Smiley was the worse for wear.

As Wertheim was ushered in, he gave a double-take at Esplin and Brayton, but he eyed me with dead-pan indifference. Carl Prater, who entered a moment later, escorted by District Attorney Andy Tanner, froze at the sight of the two Valleyville morticians.

"I want my lawyer," he cried out. "Get me J. J. McNamara at once!"

Merica put through a call for McNamara and then the police official turned to Star. "You might as well get along with it while we're waiting for McNamara. You don't have to say anything till his lawyer gets here."

Star took the floor. "Here on the inspector's desk, is an affidavit signed by Mr. Brayton and Mr. Esplin, who conduct Valleyville's leading funeral parlor. Prater's hermetically sealed vault firm has been making a considerable effort to sell them the Prater vault."

"The company has been successful with their product, making a profit for Mr. Prater, who obtained 49 per cent of the stock for his invention, and the late Barney Bidault, who supplied the capital in return for 51 per cent of the stock."

"Mr. Wertheim, the sales manager, rigged up a bizarre device for graphically demonstrating the principle of the hermetically sealed vault. Of course the idea is decades old. I've seen many demonstrations in store windows of miniature vaults submerged in water upon dolls. But Wertheim went one better by putting on a life-size show with a real vault. Miss Clara

Mayhew, the company receptionist, doubled as the doll.

"When Mr. Brayton and Mr. Esplin came for a demonstration, they arrived so late that Miss Mayhew had been excused. Prater and Wertheim made the best of the situation and took their customers out to dinner at the La Jolla Club."

A L NANABARRO was a greenish white as Star went on. "Prater suggested that Frannie substitute for Clara as the doll in the vault and she said she'd make it to the offices between shows. Prater probably told her to bring the yellow bathing suit she happened to be wearing in one of her numbers. This she did, borrowing Al Nanabarro's car.

"The girl took her place and the vault was lowered into the water. Brayton and Esplin were favorably impressed when Wertheim suddenly became excited. Too late he reached for the lever causing the vault to rise. When it was at last lifted, the doll was wet, instead of dry as it had been in the past. In short, Frannie Martin had drowned."

The gaze of Sonya and Nanabarro turned to Carl Prater, who breathed heavily. Wertheim then broke.

"It wasn't my fault!" he screamed. "It was Prater's! The metal was cracked when it was stamped out."

Al Nanabarro reached Prater before anybody could stop him. Merica and Nanabarro's own lieutenant, Lou Bracco, pulled him off. The night club man continued to stare across the room at Prater with hatred.

"When the horrible accident was discovered," Star went on, "all present were frantic. Mr. Brayton and Mr. Esplin saw ruin if publicity about this episode reached their home town, as it inevitably would. If something drastic were not done, Mr. Prater and Mr. Wertheim also saw ruin."

"It was Mr. Wertheim who came up with what seemed a brilliant suggestion. No one else, he assured the others, knew of Miss Martin's visit to the Prater offices. Why not drive her car to some spot along the river, send the car into the river with Miss Martin's body inside and pass off her lamentable death as a traffic accident?"

"The idea seemed perfect at the time. Wertheim sent his employer and his prospective customers packing back to La Jolla Club, where they were to establish their alibi. He himself managed the manipulation of the accident, dressing Miss Martin in her street clothes. Bidault probably learned of the tragedy from Wertheim."

"WHAT happened afterward is open to transparent conjecture. Armed with this deadly information, Barney Bidault confronted Carl Prater late one night in his office. He was also armed with his wife's small automatic pistol. He had borrowed the pistol with the pretext that he needed it for protection on a trip.

"Barney had been quick to see his opportunity to freeze Prater out of his highly successful company. With threat of exposure and threat of the little pistol, he extracted a complete confession from Carl Prater. He left Prater with the adjudication that the confession would be returned—if Prater assigned his shares of stock for a ridiculously low figure and abandoned his office as president."

"But he reckoned without re-prisal. He was followed home, attacked from behind on his wife's own threshold and struck down. The little gun was taken from his person and used to murder him. That was why the bullet appeared to have been fired from the floor—actually Bidault was lying on the floor, and the bullet was fired downward at an angle through his mouth and through his brain."

"The killer left the pistol behind but took the confession from Bidault's pocket. Naturally—"

"I didn't do it!" We all jumped. Carl Prater had screamed.

Death Toll in San Salvador 'Quake 1,200

San Salvador, El Salvador, May 9.—(AP)—The death toll from El Salvador's weekend earthquake rose to 1,200 persons today, as new reports filtered slowly into the capital from isolated regions in the disaster zone. The injured were reckoned at 4,000 or more.

With many villages in the quake area still cut off, casualty figures were incomplete. The government earlier had estimated that "over 1,000" persons died in the upheaval in the eastern part of the country.

President Oscar Osorio last night ordered martial law in the devastated region. Aid was being rushed to the injured and homeless.

The army continued a hurried evacuation of survivors from the region—a 60 square mile zone in the country's rich coffee plantation belt close to the Pacific coast.

Newspapers reported a move to make a vast funeral pyre of the quake area, to prevent the spread of disease. Local authorities hotly opposed this, hoping to rescue their records and complete identification of the dead.

Renewed but slight local earth shocks were reported again yesterday but there were as yet no reports of new casualties or damage.

Placing the time of the quake at about 5 p. m. Sunday, eyewitnesses said the toll would have been on holiday trips or walks.

Casualties were heaviest in the virtually destroyed city of Jueapa, population 12,000, where a resident reported "only two or three houses and the new market—an which the roof was not yet built—were left standing."

Severe but lesser damage was reported in nearby Chinameca, and in at last a half dozen smaller centers in the surrounding area.

The seriously injured were hospitalized at San Miguel which, though in the quake area, suffered only slight damage. Others were
